"Ounce Of Prevention" Is Still Good Advice

Elmore Jordan
Extension Agent

A major source of financial loss to the citizens of the Commonwealth is the burgeoning rate of dwelling fires across the state. In this article, we will discuss some of the ways you can reduce the odds you will become a victim (financially and literally) of a dwelling fire. Not only will being fire safety-conscious help you prevent property loss, and save lives, but also one measure we'll almost guarantee is your being alerted to fire or smoke.

Both the dollar loss, and number of deaths as a result of fire have reached an appalling proportion. In spite of extensive fire-prevention programs throughout the state, dwelling fires continue to be the major cause of fire related deaths. This tragic loss of lives, and property consumed by fire, can be reduced.

The following are simple, basic ways to reduce the chances of fire in your home:

--Keep your home--closets, garage, attic, basement, workshop, yard--free and clean of trash and items no longer needed. More than 100 homes in the U.S. are damaged or destroyed each day by fire which starts in rubbish.

--Store gasoline only in a certified safety container which has a spring loaded cap and a flame-arresting mesh inside the spout.

--Dispose of old paint and solvent containers, even those with a small amount left. Always store these substances in capped metal containers, never in glass jars or bottles, and never near a source of heat. While you are at it, get rid of rags filled with paint, oil, polish, or other flammable liquids.

--Check your home for electrical defects. Look at your appliance and lamp cords, and plugs, as well as wall outlets. Check for fraying, cracking, or loose connections. If a wire or plug is warm to the touch, this indicates trouble. Another safety hint involves homes equipped with aluminum wiring. Periodic checks should be made by a qualified electrician of all outlet boxes, switches, and any connections where aluminum and copper are joined.

--Never leave a pan of cooking grease on the stove unattended.

--Beware of leakage of fuel from an overfilled auto gas tank, when parked in a garage near a water heater.

--Be careful while smoking, and with matches. Have enough ash trays around the house, and check the contents before emptying into the trash can. Smoke that last cigarette before climbing into bed, and make sure it is out.

--Avoid buying clothing (especially children's sleepwear) that does not meet Federal flammability standards. Wearing loose, frilly garments near the stove or barbeque grill is an invitation to tragedy.

--Have an escape plan from every area of your home, and practice it. Always look for different exits from public buildings. Invest in fire extinguishers, and consider installing household fire detection and alarm devices.

The above list is not intended to be a complete, or comprehensive program of fire prevention for your home. But it is a start, and it doesn't require a tremendous effort, or cash outlay.

It will pay you many dividends to talk to the local hardware dealers about fire and smoke detectors. The built-in fail-safe features of many models and the dependability of these systems far outweigh any cost which is minimal at the most.

"Young" Mrs. Natalie Robertson, only 94, is shown at her sewing machine busily making bonnets. I wonder how she'll spend her time when she does get old?

Then And Now

"Miss Natalie, 94 And Still Young"

By: Frances H. Paulette

To many of our readers the days of THEN are known only through books, tales handed down, or possibly from very early memories, depending on the age of the reader. For Mrs. Natalie Robertson, (Mrs. T. H.) of Atwood Street, Appomattox, the days of THEN are as clearly imprinted on her mind as the happenings of NOW.

Mrs. Robertson, who will be 95 years young on February 28th has some very definite ideas about how a lady should conduct herself as she begins to approach that time in life often referred to as "old age." One "do" that is high on her list is to wear bright, cheerful colors; she plans to do just that -- in fact she's already begun, (not that she's old yet) for when I had the pleasure of a visit last week, she was wearing an attractive purple dress. Thank you, "Miss Natalie", purple is my favorite color!

As for the "don't" list -- concerning growing old -- Mrs. Robertson again expressed her strong conviction. "Don't," she warns, "go around always complaining, nobody wants to hear that!" And she doesn't! It is often said that you are only as old as you let yourself become, and Mrs. Robertson, regardless of how many years may pile up, will always be young at heart. She keeps busy and loves every minute of it.

Born and reared in the Vera Community, Natalie Holmes Coleman was the daughter of the late Tyler and Sallie Coleman. She was married at the age of 22 years to Thomas Robertson, also of the same community.

Recalling her wedding as though it had taken place only yesterday, she described her dress. Attractively fashioned of brown material, it came to her ankles. Had a breeze ruffled her skirt, you would have seen high-top shoes modestly covering her ankles. They rode to and from the church in a horse-drawn buddy, and "Miss Natalie" commented that the horse pulling the buggy could go almost as fast as some cars today.

Mrs. Robertson attended New Hope Baptist Church from the time of her birth until her marriage and then became a member of Liberty Chapel Baptist Church where her husband was a member. Today she has the distinct honor of being the oldest living member of that church.

In the living room of her home, filled with pictures of family, Mrs. Robertson talked with love of her children, grandchildren, and great - grandchildren. When asked about some of the differences in the upbringing of children of today compared to the manner in which her children were reared, she thought for a moment and then replied, today, when a child so much as grunts the parents are quick to trot him off to a doctor. When I was bringing up my family, "I'd "dose them myself if it wasn't too serious."

I asked Mrs. Robertson if she had some advice for our readers who might have hopes of reaching 94, and this is what she said - - "I always eat a good breakfast -- usually three biscuits, an egg, bacon or sausage and coffee. You know, I'm no good until I have had my breakfast; once I've eaten, I'm ready to get busy" And get busy she does!

Though she lives alone in her house and takes care of her own housework, Mrs. Robertson is fortunate indeed to have her daughter and son-in-law, Lizzie Robertson Thompson and Percy Thompson living next door. Lizzie is in and out every day for a visit and to be of help with any work that might prove to be too strenuous. Her innumerable friends find it hard to let a day or evening pass without a visit to the home of "Miss Natalie".

While visiting with her, Mrs. Robertson showed me some of her beautiful quilts that she has made entirely by hand (the individual pieces sewn together by hand and then quilted by hand). She told me she has made four such quilts since November. Nimble fingers on busy hands, don't you agree?

Since moving to Appomattox in 1949 after the death of her husband, she has made more than 500 bonnets -- the doll fashioned kind. Tourists from all over the United States who have visited the Appomattox National Historical Park, and bought a bonnet, have taken home with them a bit of "Miss Natalie's" beautiful handwork. She told me that she has been sewing all of her life and loves it.

When asked what she misses the most living in town after having been reared on a farm and living all of her married life in the country, she replied "I really miss hearing a rooster crow!"

In addition to her daughter, Beckham, Jan. 10 - There is not very much going on around here this morning because of the snow storm.

Mr. Gibbs Martin was honored on his birthday January 4th with a flower from the Superior Trees Nursery. Congratulations!

Miss Kim Drinkard spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Howlett Drinkard. Donald Lee and Miss Eunice Martin . Visiting in this home on Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. David Martin.

Miss Carolyn Morris and Mr. Jerry May were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris, Melanie and Mrs. S. G. Martin.

Mrs. S. G. Martin receivbed notice of the death of Mrs. Albert Goodman's mother Mrs. Ethel Snedaker on Jan. 3rd. We extend sympathy to her family.

We extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Tuck in the death of Mr. Tuck's sister. Mr. and Mrs. John Moore attended the funeral.

Mrs. Warren Crews and Miss Shirley Crews visited Mr. Warren Crews in McGuire Veterans Hospital on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burge visited Mrs. Beulah Goodbar of Monroe on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crews and Mrs. Warren Crews visited Mr. Warren Crews in McGuire Veterans Hospital in Richmond on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moore visited Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moore Jr. on Sunday.

Stonewall

And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in the Jordan. Mark 1:9

Jan.10 - Mr. David Mitchell is home from Bluefield College until February on vacation.

Mrs. Eleanor Roach spent Sunday with her father J. O. Davidson and Crawford.

Mr. Herman Beard is in the hospital in Lynchburg and will have surgery Monday. Our wish is for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Annette Alvis is a patient in the University Hospital in Charlottesville, Va.

She will have open heart surgery. Let each of us be in prayer for a successful operation.

Mrs. Thompson, she has a son, Earnest, who resides in Richmond; 8 grandchildren and 14 great - grandchildren.

If you happen to be a newcomer to Appomattox and have not met "Miss Natalie", you have missed a treat. Faithful to her many old friends, and always ready to make new ones, keeping busy with her sewing and housework Mrs. Robertson hasn't had the time to think about getting old. When she does, I think she will be able to handle it quite well!

Thank you, Mrs. Robertson, for the visit, a look into the past, your words of wisdom, and most of all for being "Miss Natalie", everybody's friend. We love you!

We thought you should know...

that in the area of medical malpractice suits, in one state, ten times as many million-dollar awards have been made since 1970 than in all the years before. The growing volume of such suits is adding more than $3 billion to the nation's annual cost of health care, according to HEW.

What's the point? The point is, this is just one of the many circumstances helping to push the cost of insurance beyond the reach of many.

You can help by talking to your neighbors and friends, writing your representatives in government and contacting your insurance commissioner. Or, by talking to us.

Then maybe you won't just blame your insurance company and your agent.

The more people who understand the problem, the better prepared we'll all be to work out the solutions.
